

APOTEK INC

Your biology. Your lifestyle. Your regimen. Powered by AI.

APOTEK is built on a simple premise: your health is interconnected, and your regimen should be too. We combine AI-driven personalization with clinical-grade formulation and apothecary-quality delivery — a system that evolves with you.

Investor Pitch Deck · Pre-Seed · Confidential

VISION

The first personalized apothecary system that unifies internal health, skincare, and recovery into a single adaptive daily regimen.

Apotek replaces fragmented wellness products with a structured, continuously optimized personal health protocol — one system, not a shelf of disconnected purchases. Every element of the regimen works in concert, evolving alongside the user's biology, skin health, and recovery patterns.

Internal Health

Vitamins, minerals, and adaptogens calibrated to individual biology and stated health goals.

External Health

Skincare serums, barrier support, and targeted topical treatments personalized to skin type and condition.

Recovery

Sleep support, stress regulation, and inflammation control woven into the daily evening ritual.

PROBLEM

Wellness is fragmented, and no one is coordinating it.

Fragmented by Design

The average health-conscious consumer takes 5-15 disconnected products daily — supplements, skincare, and lifestyle products bought and used in isolation, without coordination or personalization.

No Connective System

Nothing links internal biology, external skin health, and recovery needs. Each category operates in a silo, leaving critical cross-domain interactions unaddressed and unoptimized.

No Feedback Loop

Consumers can't tell what's working. Spend rises without measurable results, adherence drops, and the cycle repeats — benefiting retailers, not users.

- ❏ The result: low adherence, high spend, and no measurable improvement loop — a systemic failure that Apotek is built to solve.

INSIGHT

Consumers don't want products. They want outcomes and guidance.

Consumer behavior is shifting decisively from product purchasing to system-based personalization. The most successful health and wellness companies of the last decade are not selling items — they are selling continuous, adaptive protocols. The market has already validated this model.

Whoop

Continuous recovery and strain tracking — a subscription protocol, not a one-time device purchase.

Function Health

Ongoing biomarker monitoring that turns lab data into a living health roadmap, updated continuously.

Eight Sleep

Adaptive nightly optimization that adjusts in real time — a system that learns and improves with you.

Skin Diary

Personalized skincare prescribed by human dermatologists — proving that consumers trust expert-guided, individualized skin protocols over generic product shelves.

SOLUTION

One unified daily regimen, tailored to each individual.

Apotek integrates three domains into a single structured morning and evening ritual that evolves over time. Rather than asking users to manage a product portfolio, Apotek delivers a protocol — a living, adaptive system designed around the individual.

Internal Health

Vitamins, minerals, and adaptogens formulated for individual biology — not generic, one-size formulas.

External Health

Skincare serums, barrier support, and targeted topical treatments matched to skin type, concerns, and environment.

Recovery

Sleep support, stress regulation, and inflammation control — sequenced into the nightly ritual for maximum efficacy.

AI PERSONALIZATION ENGINE

Every regimen is generated and refined by AI.

Apotek's proprietary AI model replaces static rules with a learning system that gets sharper with every data point. It models all three domains together — never in isolation — producing a regimen that reflects the full picture of each user's health.

Data Inputs

Intake responses, stated goals, and optional biometric data captured at onboarding and updated over time.

AI Engine

Models each user's biology, skin, and recovery needs together, continuously — learning from outcomes, not just inputs.

Personalized Output

A regimen generated and re-tuned automatically each month, presented as a daily ritual — not a product list.

From intake to daily ritual in three steps.

Apotek is designed to feel effortless. The onboarding experience is structured and thorough; the output is clean and actionable. The user never has to think about what to take — only when to take it.

Digital Intake

A structured 10–15 minute intake captures health, skin, and recovery baselines — building the foundation for a fully personalized regimen.

Regimen Generation

Apotek's AI engine generates a personalized regimen across all three domains, formatted as a morning and evening ritual — not a SKU list.

Adaptive Updates

Monthly updates refine the regimen using user feedback and optional biometric data, ensuring continuous improvement without requiring manual re-intake.

THE APOTEK REGIMEN

Structured rituals, morning and evening.

Every Apotek regimen is delivered as a purposeful daily structure — two moments of intentional care that compound over time. Each ritual is sequenced for efficacy and designed to become a lasting habit.

Morning Ritual

- Internal Focus & Energy blend — vitamins, minerals, and adaptogens for sustained performance
- Skin Barrier & Hydration serum — protection and prep for the day ahead
- Structured usage instructions — dose, timing, and sequencing included

Evening Ritual

- Internal Calm & Recovery blend — targeted support for stress regulation and inflammation control
- Skin Repair & Regeneration oil — overnight treatment aligned with circadian skin biology
- Sleep optimization support — formulated to promote deep, restorative rest

BRAND POSITIONING

A modern apothecary system — clinical precision, botanical aesthetics.

Apotek sits at the intersection of clinical health and botanical luxury — a category it defines rather than competes in. The brand is built around the concept of the personal apothecary: a trusted, expert system that knows you, adapts to you, and delivers with precision. Every touchpoint — from packaging to protocol language — reinforces a single idea: this is your health system, not a product shelf.

Clinical Credibility

Every formula is evidence-based, ingredient-transparent, and dosed for efficacy. No wellness theater. No proprietary blends that obscure what's inside.

Botanical Aesthetic

The visual and sensory language of Apotek draws from apothecary tradition — amber glass, botanical illustration, ritual language — grounding clinical rigor in warmth and beauty.

System Identity

Apotek is never sold as individual SKUs. The brand vocabulary — regimen, protocol, ritual, formula — reinforces that users are subscribing to a system, not buying products.

Adaptive Personalization

The brand promise is not a fixed product. It is a living regimen that evolves with the user's biology, skin, and lifestyle — making Apotek feel more like a practitioner than a brand.

MARKET OPPORTUNITY

Two massive, fragmented markets converging.

Apotek targets the intersection of wellness, skincare, and data-driven health optimization — three categories that have historically operated in silos, yet serve the same consumer. No integrated, system-level player dominates this intersection today.

$150B+

Global Supplements

A category growing at ~8% CAGR, driven by rising health consciousness and preventive care adoption.

$180B+

Global Skincare

Premiumization and personalization are reshaping the market, with personalized skincare emerging as the fastest-growing segment.

$25B+

Longevity & Optimization

Rapidly emerging demand for data-driven health tools — nascent but explosive, with no clear category leader yet.

❏ Apotek is not competing for one slice of these markets — it is creating a new category at their convergence.

BUSINESS MODEL

Subscription-based revenue, with clear expansion paths.

Core Subscription

$80–$180

per user, per month

Full-domain regimen access: internal health, skincare, and recovery — continuously personalized and updated. Delivered monthly as a structured daily ritual.

Premium Add-Ons

Lab testing, advanced skincare upgrades, and longevity modules layered onto the core subscription — unlocking higher ARPU from engaged users without disrupting the core experience.

Future B2B Channel

Corporate wellness programs and clinical partnerships represent a longer-term revenue channel — high-margin, recurring, and aligned with the Apotek protocol model.

A focused DTC launch to validate retention early.

Apotek's go-to-market strategy is disciplined: acquire a high-intent early adopter cohort through authentic, credible channels — then measure retention obsessively before scaling spend.

Founder-Led Storytelling

Direct, authentic brand narrative from the founding team — building trust and differentiation from day one.

Longevity & Biohacking Creators

Partnerships with credible voices in the personalized health and longevity space — audiences already primed for subscription wellness.

Premium Wellness Communities

High-intent audiences already invested in personalized health — lower CAC, higher conversion, stronger retention signal.

📌 Launch Goal: 500–1,000 early adopters to validate retention, engagement, and product-market fit before scaling acquisition.

Contract manufacturing secured. A phased path to proprietary production.

Phase 1 manufacturing partnerships are already in place, enabling Apotek to launch with quality-controlled, compliant products — without the capital intensity of owned production facilities. The roadmap scales deliberately as revenue grows.

Three compounding layers of defensibility.

Apotek's competitive advantage is not a single feature — it is a compounding system. Each layer reinforces the others, making the platform progressively harder to replicate over time.

Data Loop

Intake → regimen → outcome → refinement, continuously compounding. Anonymized outcome data strengthens personalization quality at scale — an advantage no single-category competitor can replicate.

AI Personalization Engine

A continuously learning model that gets sharper with every user, every day. Models all three domains in concert — internal, external, and recovery — for insights no siloed platform can generate.

Ritual Lock-In

Daily morning and evening usage creates behavioral dependency. Apotek becomes a habit — and habits have the highest retention rates in consumer wellness.

What ships in the minimum viable product.

The Apotek MVP is scoped to validate the full core loop — intake, personalization, fulfillment, and ritual delivery — without over-engineering before product-market fit is confirmed.

Web-Based Intake System

Structured digital intake capturing health, skin, and recovery baselines — the foundation of every personalized regimen.

AI Recommendation Engine

Generates and continuously updates personalized regimens across all three domains, refining automatically with each data cycle.

Subscription Checkout & Billing

End-to-end payment and subscription management — seamless onboarding to paid conversion with recurring billing built in.

Manufacturer Integration

Connected fulfillment through secured contract manufacturing partners — orders trigger production and shipping automatically.

Daily Regimen Output System

Presents the regimen as a structured morning and evening ritual — not a product list. Designed for adherence and habit formation from day one.

We are raising $500,000 in Pre-Seed Capital.

Funds will be deployed to build, launch, and validate the core Apotek system — reaching 1,000 paying subscribers with measurable retention and engagement.

Use of Funds

- Product development & AI engineering — building the intake system, personalization engine, and regimen output infrastructure
- Manufacturing integration — connecting fulfillment with secured contract partners
- Brand development & design — packaging, digital experience, and brand identity
- Regulatory & compliance support — ensuring all formulations meet FDA and FTC requirements
- Initial customer acquisition — funding the DTC launch cohort across target channels

Target Milestone

1,000

paying subscribers with measurable retention and engagement — demonstrating product-market fit and a repeatable acquisition model ahead of a Seed round.

SOCIAL IMPACT

Apotek for Good: Investing in Health for All.

Beyond profit, Apotek is built on a foundation of giving back. We are committed to dedicating a significant portion of our profits to initiatives that directly improve community health, starting with those who need it most.

20% Profit Contribution

A substantial portion of every purchase directly funds our mission to provide essential health support to underserved populations.

Supporting Mothers & Children

Our initial focus is on providing foundational nutritional support to mothers and young children, ensuring a healthier start in life.

Essential Supplement Donations

Distributing high-quality, doctor-approved supplements to foster well-being and aid healthy development in vulnerable communities.

TELEHEALTH & EDUCATION

Accessible care, wherever you are.

Apotek extends beyond the individual regimen — connecting users to licensed practitioners and equipping communities with the health literacy they need to thrive. Our telehealth and education pillars make expert-guided wellness accessible to all.

Apotek Telehealth

- On-demand consultations with licensed practitioners embedded directly in the Apotek platform
- Regimen reviews, lab interpretation, and personalized guidance — no separate appointment needed
- Bridging the gap between AI-generated recommendations and clinical oversight

Community Health Education

- Free and low-cost health education programs for underserved communities
- Workshops, digital content, and guided programs covering nutrition, skincare, and recovery basics
- Partnering with local health organizations to deliver culturally relevant, accessible wellness education

❑ Apotek believes that personalized health should not be a privilege. Telehealth and education are core to our long-term mission — not an afterthought.
